

Press Release

infinite multiple

Lounge Arrival

An exhibition of unlimited contemporary art editions from some of London and the world's most interesting and challenging artists, presented by Infinite Multiple, a new platform offering an alternative way to experience contemporary art – the affordable unlimited edition. Now everyone can be a collector.

Infinite Multiple is a newly launched online platform selling unlimited edition artworks to a maximum price of £300, including sculptural objects, prints, clothing, bookworks and more, by some of London's and the world's most exciting young, emerging and established contemporary artists.

Nina Coulson's living four-leafed clover plants, Antonia MacDonald's silk scarf printed with her high-explosive-destroyed jumper, and Maria Paz Garcia's blue plastic bag handbag join existing Infinite Multiple artworks including Santiago Sierra's NO armband, Thompson & Craighead's circumlocational porcelain plate, and Matthew Darbyshire's T Shirts featuring 1980s Aids adverts.

The exhibition, at the arebyte Gallery on London's City Island, whose Sunday afternoon launch will be accompanied by beer and paired snacks by the revolutionary Earth Ale, offers an exclusive preview of new artworks to be released throughout 2018, and a celebration of Infinite Multiple's new website, a jargon-free portal into the world of contemporary art and an online shop selling its exclusive artworks.

The low prices of Infinite Multiple's unique unlimited editions, and the simplicity of its website open up contemporary art to a massively expanded audience. Now everyone can collect cutting edge art and exhibit it in their homes.
